Implementation of STEPS MASTER “SUSTAINABLE FOOD PRODUCTION SYSTEMS” in UNBI (General information, feedback, impact, current situation etc.)

University of Bihac (UNBI)

Current status:

- University of Bihać (Biotechnical Faculty) launched the STEPS study program in the beginning of the 2020/21 academic year by enrolling the first generation of students into the one year master's study program "Sustainable Food Production Systems" (12 students enrolled, Together with UNSA 19 students).
- These students are still active. At the moment, most of them are doing their Master's theses.
- UNSA and UNBI offer the new Master of Sciences in Sustainable Food Production Systems, under the framework of STEPS Erasmus+ Project, Jointly in National level and based on a bilateral agreement between University of Bihać (UNBI) and University of Sarajevo (UNSA).
- The next generation 2021/22 - break. Not enough registered students.
- Current academic year 2022/23. The enrollment process is ongoing. Number of students required, the teaching process begins in November 2022.
- The detailed establishment procedure and more information about MSc STEPS at UNBI can be found at www.btf.unbi.ba

UNBI MSc STEPS LMS platform:

- After developing LMS STEPS, UNBI designed/created all courses.
- All professors are registered
- All students are registered
- All UNBI teaching materials are uploaded to the LMS platform,
- It is fully used
- We even conducted some surveys via LMS

Accreditation process

- According to the law and rules of the University of Bihać, the process of accreditation of the study program begins after the end of the initial/ first year of study. Accordingly, UNBI has initiated the accreditation process for MSc STEPS in October 2021.
- Accreditation goes separately from UNSA
- Before submitting an application for accreditation, the higher education institution conducts a self-evaluation, which results in the creation of a Self-Evaluation Report.
- A Committee has been formed and internal self-evaluation is currently in the process.
- When it comes to the self-evaluation process, the University of Bihac will apply for external evaluation through MESCS-USK in November 2022. It is expected that the accreditation of the MSc STEPS program at UNBI will be completed early in 2023.

- You can find detailed information about UNBI MSc STEPS in report D7.1.
- Detailed information on UNBI MSc STEPS accreditation can be found in report D6.1.
